THE NEW YORK TIMES 2012 – 2013 COLLEGE SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM

To be eligible, you must:

- Be a senior in a New York City high school expecting to graduate in 2013.
- Be ranked in the top 10% (or equivalent) of your graduating class. (If your school does not compute class rank, you must get a letter of support from your guidance counselor that attests to your qualifications for this scholarship and include it with your application).
- Have faced a challenge or obstacle similar to those of previous Times scholars.
- Have significant financial need.
- Complete all three parts of this application, staple them together, and mail them to the above address so they are received by October 26, 2012. Alternatively, you can e-mail the application and essay as a single PDF to rredu@rredu.com.

PART 1: Complete this writable PDF questionnaire on both sides, answering all questions, then sign it.

PART 2: Attach a page listing your most important activities and achievements, including academic honors, community service, work experience and extracurricular activities. Please include dates and, where appropriate, duration of activity.

PART 3: New York Times Scholars must have overcome significant personal obstacles. Read the articles on the Web site [www.nytimes.com/scholarship] about previous scholars to determine if your situation is comparable and explain in an essay of approximately 500 words the challenges you have faced and how you have responded to them.

Additional:

If your transcript is available, please include a copy. If you would like to include a chronology of events in your life to help us understand your circumstances in context to each other, please attach one.
