

Florence Design Week 2012
Russian Design Pavilion
Lungarno Collection
22 May – 3 June 2012

Russian Federation will be a special guest of Florence Design Week for the first time.

Project aims to promote striking trends of russian contemporary design, introduce european public to the talented colleagues from Russia whom exhibition and residence will be located in one of the most prestigious places in Florence «Lungarno Collection».

Russian design Pavilion is a part of Florence Design Week (22-27 May) which is one of the most interesting showcases in Europe reflecting technical innovations and bold experiments in design to favour the development of cultural and commercial exchanges of Tuscany with other countries. There will be organized an interactive bridge between Florence Design Week and Saint-Petersburg Design Week being held in conjunction.

Lungarno Collection is an italian hospitality company of luxury and design hotels, villas and retreats owned by the Ferragamo family, famous for its own personality and for a role taken place in the history of contemporary design. Gallery Hotel Art was the first and more significant projects of Design Hotels inaugurated in the 90's in Italy.
