

Women for Independence

Join, support, get involved...

We are an open and diverse network of women who support independence for Scotland and will work with others for a Yes vote in the referendum.

We are a broad-based campaigning group who plan to listen to Scotland's women. We aim to ensure women are involved in the independence debate.

We will ensure that there will be a space for women's voices and interests in the campaign. Independence will create opportunities for women to engage in developing a fully democratic vision for Scotland's future. Women should play a central role in achieving independence.

Women make up 52% of Scotland's population and their votes are critical to ensuring a Yes vote in the referendum. Why not join Women for Independence and play your part in ensuring women's voices are heard loud and clear in the most important decision Scotland will take in over 300 years.

www.womenforindependence.org

How you can support Women for Independence

- Email info@womenforindependence.org
- Like facebook.com/Women4Independence
- Follow @WomenForIndy
- Shop www.zazzle.co.uk/womenforindependence
- Donate www.womenforindependence.org

Visit our website to access the Forum and find out how to Get Involved.

Jeane Freeman

"Women are not just important because of our numbers but because of our abilities, our talents, our commonsense and because we form the backbone of our families and communities"

Susan Lyons

"I absolutely support independence because I believe it is the best chance we have to improve the future of people in Scotland. We have the chance to focus on Scottish priorities and give our children a real opportunity."

Read more about What Women Think and Our Stories on Women for Independence website.

www.womenforindependence.org

How you can support Women for Independence

- Email info@womenforindependence.org
- Like facebook.com/Women4Independence
- Follow @WomenForIndy
- Shop www.zazzle.co.uk/womenforindependence
- Donate www.womenforindependence.org

Visit our website to access the Forum and find out how to Get Involved.

Jeane Freeman

"Women are not just important because of our numbers but because of our abilities, our talents, our commonsense and because we form the backbone of our families and communities"

Susan Lyons

"I absolutely support independence because I believe it is the best chance we have to improve the future of people in Scotland. We have the chance to focus on Scottish priorities and give our children a real opportunity."

Read more about What Women Think and Our Stories on Women for Independence website.

www.womenforindependence.org

Women for Independence

Join, support, get involved...

We are an open and diverse network of women who support independence for Scotland and will work with others for a Yes vote in the referendum.

We are a broad-based campaigning group who plan to listen to Scotland's women. We aim to ensure women are involved in the independence debate.

We will ensure that there will be a space for women's voices and interests in the campaign. Independence will create opportunities for women to engage in developing a fully democratic vision for Scotland's future. Women should play a central role in achieving independence.

Women make up 52% of Scotland's population and their votes are critical to ensuring a Yes vote in the referendum. Why not join Women for Independence and play your part in ensuring women's voices are heard loud and clear in the most important decision Scotland will take in over 300 years.

www.womenforindependence.org