Dear Kathryn,

With your virtual organizing coaching, I have everything ahead of me to be better and better after being challenged with disorganization my entire life. It's close; I can sense it. Thank God! Thank you! You came into my life for a reason and will be held in my grateful heart forever. I am so happy that I opened my eyes and ears. I have a blind trust in ourselves that we can see emerge the best in me.

You have been such a support, just to know you are there, believing in me. It's like swimming, when you think your body can't respond to one more stroke, but your accuracy in e-mailing me quotes and advice have been there, like my swimming teacher cheering for more.

Your coaching style unified with my desire to succeed has spared me from sinking or even thinking about it, because you described since the very beginning what it was going to be like. Thank God I have been able to use all your tools as shields and propellers, because it has not been easy. Not the task itself as much as creating the time to do it and making sure to carry out the rest of my daily duties as wife, mother, and boss and supplier for my three kinds of clients. Now I am on my way, and am not stopping. I am not quitting, ever! I am almost there, the heartbeat of the vision that once only vibrated deep within, is now flowing out too.

Here's how your four coaching calls and follow-up e-mails helped me:

The present is not exhausting and depleting anymore; it's a proactive opportunity.

I recovered almost 100% of my creativity, thinking in great new projects already.

One month ago I understood I had to be on time, now I enjoy being on time.

I started to yearn to be in my home office; it's not a sacrifice anymore and I believe I will be able to enjoy my dream home office soon, and that feeling was very far away one month ago.

I can find things quickly and easily which is very rewarding.

I created a time to start reading, enjoying, and taking advantage of my magazines, which I already paid for a long time ago.

It is easier to decide whether to file or toss; I don't create trash anymore!

I love my organized life and everybody around me benefits with me.
Isn't this wonderful?! So again, thanks and God bless you.

Love,

P.S. You have an amazing ability to put in words several things that are treasures for me: concrete and purposeful questions, accurate answers, perfect timing quotes, and sensible suggestions that have made me smarter, comfortable, self-confident and self-assured. I used to not like organized people a little because all I could remember was bad input from their perfectly particular way of being. You changed that feeling and I trust you. You are so professional. I want to be like you! I am paying you back with a daily reminder about you, from me, to our Lord.
