Pete Wright is an attorney who has represented children with disabilities for more than twenty years. He, himself, struggled with learning disabilities, including dyslexia, dysgraphia and ADHD. His determination to help children with their special education needs grew out of his own experience. Wrightslaw programs are designed to meet the needs of parents, educators, health care providers, advocates and attorneys who represent children with disabilities regarding special education.

Pam Wright is a psychotherapist who has worked with children and families since the 1970's. Her training and experience in clinical psychology and clinical social work give her a unique perspective on parent-child-school dynamics, problems, and solutions. Pam has written extensively about raising, educating, and advocating for children with disabilities.

ABLED Advocacy is a non-profit organization (501c3) whose mission is to provide support for children with special needs through high quality affordable advocacy and resources to empower parents/guardians to represent their children's interests in public education.
