The Adventures of Yani: Hardworking

Author: Nick Brooks
Editor: Milana Edwards

Copyright 2016

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced or transmitted in any form or by any means electronic or mechanical including photocopy, recording or any information storage and/or retrieval system without written permission of the publisher.

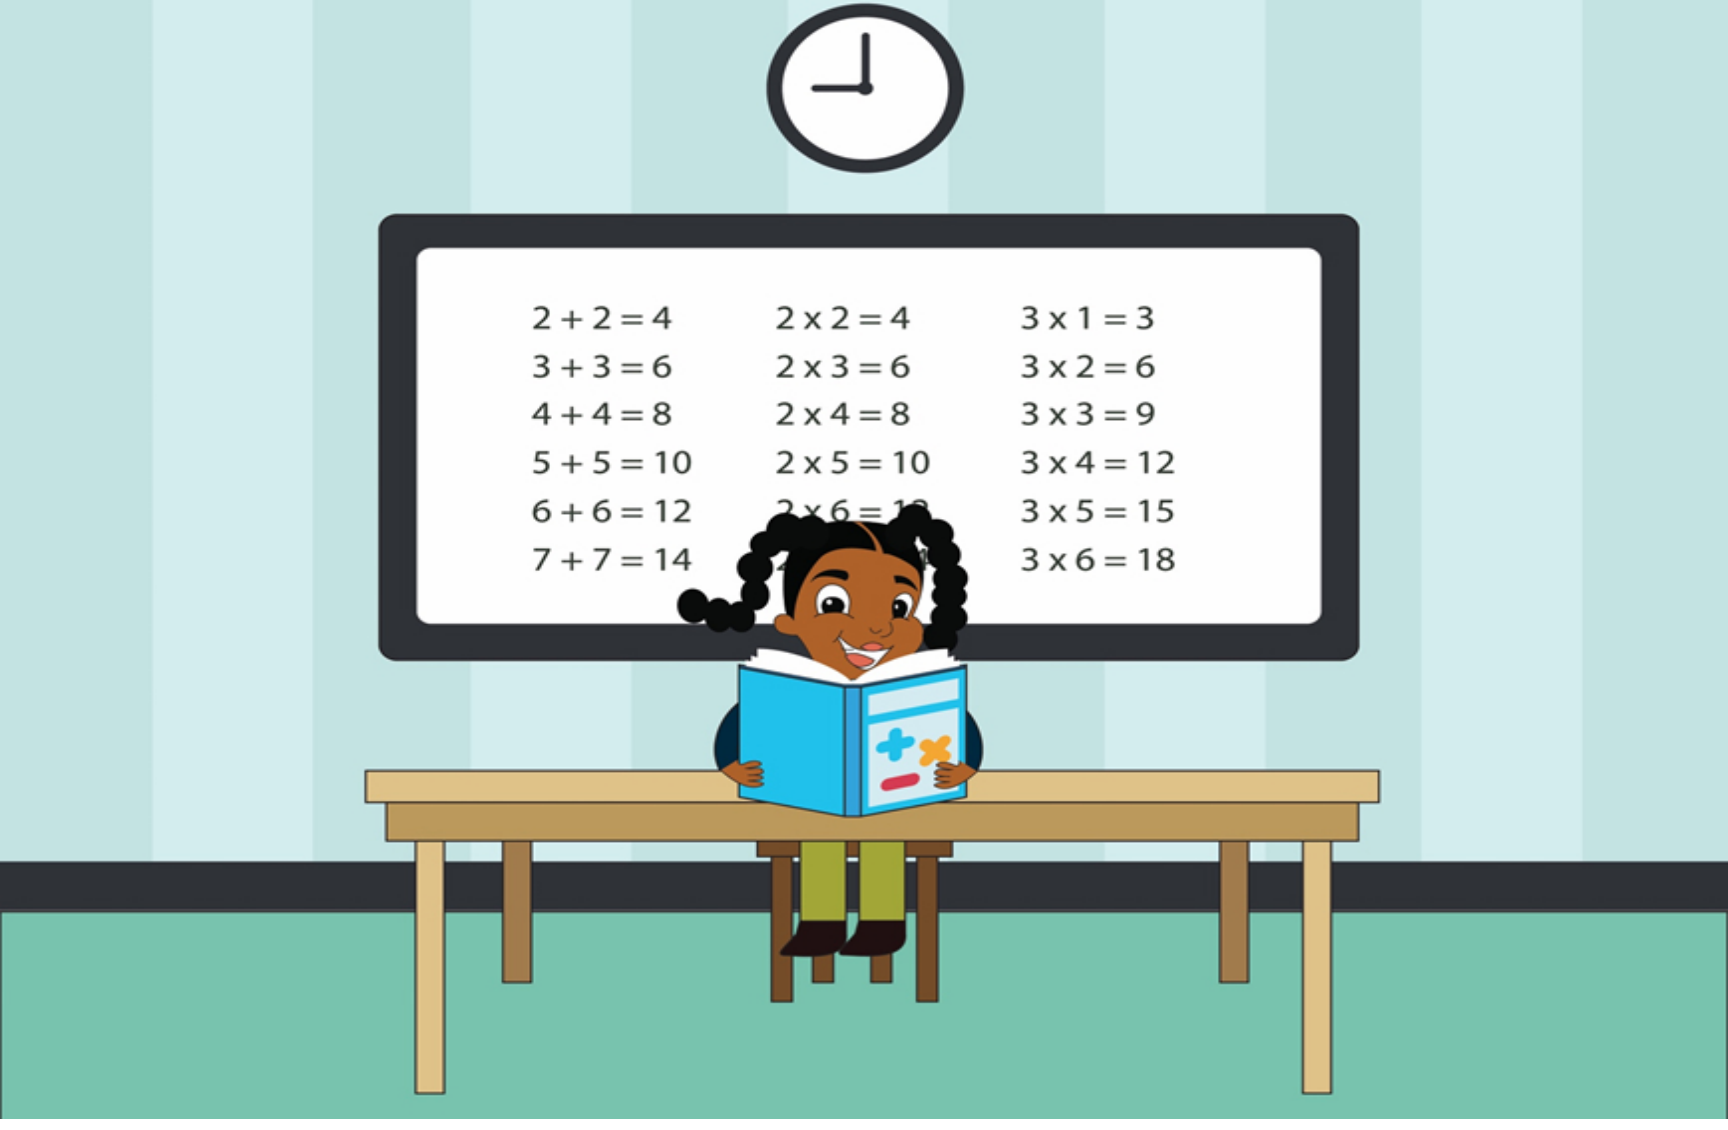
SCHOOL

I am always hardworking at school. To be hardworking at school means you always try your best, even if something is difficult. If I work hard I will definitely go to college or start my own business.

I can be hardworking by staying focused on my work, no matter what happens.

I can be hardworking by reading lots of book and never giving up when I get to a tricky word.

I can be hardworking by using every minute of writing time to work on my stories in class.



I can be hardworking by going back to check my work after I solve a math problem.

I love being hardworking! How can you be hardworking at school?

HOME

I can always be hardworking at home. When we are hardworking at home, we work to grow our brains all on our own.

I can be hardworking by doing my homework even when I feel like playing.

I can be hardworking at home by cleaning my room when it gets messy.

I can be hardworking by practicing my writing all on my own.

I can be hardworking at home by helping my family with chores around the house.

I can be hardworking by getting extra practice in my sports once I finish all my school work.

All set! Will you be hardworking at home?

COMMUNITY

I can be hardworking in my community just like at school and at home. To be hardworking in your community means you give your all to make your community a better place for each and every person.

I can be hardworking in my community by volunteering with my mom at community service.

I can be hardworking in my community by helping my dad shovel snow to keep the walkway safe.

I can be hardworking in my community by helping to keep the neighborhood clean.

I can be hardworking in my community by helping my older brother rake leaves in the driveway.

All set! Will you be hardworking in your community?