

REVIEW: AMONG FRIENDS

Trish the Dish Fruit Crisp Mix

By: DairyFreeGina

**Note: I was not paid for this review. I was sent products gratis to make and sample. Opinions are my own**

How would you like a homemade treat right from your oven that's easy to make, hassle free and filled with good for you ingredients? Step right up and grab any of the baking mixes from Among Friends.

Trish the Dish Fruit Crisp Mix- One word to describe this: Outstanding! I followed the suggestion on the package calling for a mix of apples and raspberries. I cut up fresh apples and used frozen raspberries but you could also use fresh. Generally I avoid Crisps since they are usually topped with gobs of butter but with Among Friends I used coconut oil which gave a tropical taste to the Crisp.

This crisp did not last long! Initially my husband and I ate it as is and found it extremely flavorful and comforting. We couldn't stop with just one serving- it was just too good. With our second helping we topped it with So Delicious CoCo Whip which really enhanced the flavor and texture of the Crisp. The mix definitely makes multiple servings. Dean and I were just too excited by the fresh and wholesome taste to not eat it all at once.

Among Friends was created by two friends who love baking and wanted others to enjoy oven baked treats made with the best ingredients. As they say at Among Friends “The high ratio of toasted oats and almond meal to flour in this crisp makes it easy to turn any fruit into a healthy and delicious dessert, breakfast or treat.”

