Meet WIFI member Myeisha Kitchen, who has worked as a Quality Assurance Specialist/Lab Manager at Brighton Best International for a year and a half. Here is Myeisha in her own words:

I entered the fastener industry on a whim. I was working as a Quality Assurance Specialist in the textile industry for 7.5 years and took a leap of faith by applying to Brighton Best International's open position.

I had no clue what a fastener was until I started working here. Now you can't take me anywhere without me properly identifying what fastener is being used to hold things together! The fastener industry is challenging and exciting at the same time. Just the sheer number of products, technical standards, and a broader range of materials is sometimes overwhelming, but I enjoy the variety that my job brings to me.

At Brighton Best International, my days are always full as some of my duties include maintaining the quality management system, auditing, performing testing of material, corrective and preventive action plans, and maintaining and calibrating test equipment. I am currently working towards completing a successful A2LA audit. My favorite part of my job is watching how the quality of Brighton Best International's products rise, and how our customer satisfaction is increasing!
