

Own an authentic copy of Jane Austen's Ring

Jane Austen's House Museum is proud to announce on sale for the first time, true and authentic copies of Jane Austen's own gold and turquoise ring. The ring is owned by, and on show at, Jane Austen's House Museum in Chawton, Hampshire – Jane's home from 1809 and the place where she revised and wrote her famous six novels.

The ring has been designed and made by Jo Kelsey, of Originals Jewellery, at her workshop a few miles from the museum. Jo is the only jeweller to have had access to the original ring to create an authentic copy. The ring is available in both gold and silver and inscribed inside the band with the maker's hallmark and the word Chawton, copied from Jane's hand.

Presented in an illustrated box, your ring will be handcrafted in England and sent to you by secure mail within six weeks of your order.*

Proceeds from the sale of the ring will contribute to the further development of Jane Austen's House Museum.

The gold ring is priced at £325.00 and the silver is £95.00, plus shipping. The UK shipping cost is £10 for next day delivery, including insurance. Overseas orders attract higher postage and insurance costs. We offer five sizes as standard; please contact us if you require a non-standard size. (Additional charge will apply.)

To order yours today, please complete the tear-off slip below. For more information and to discuss your order please contact Retail Manager, Mrs Ann Channon: email ann.channon@jahmusm.org.uk.

* A waiting list may apply at busy periods.
