

Geographic Statements
2017-2019 Funding Cycle

Philadelphia, PA: Sports-Based Youth Development Stream

Total Revenue: $125,000 USD per year

Recommended Grant Amount: $10-50,000 USD per year

We support not for profit organizations located in the City of Philadelphia, with an emphasis on Sports Based Youth Development (SBYD)* in after school programs for underserved children and youth. A preference will be given to PYSC members and the reporting guidelines will be based on the SportUp data collection model.

Sports Based Youth Development (SBYD) Programs use sports to engage youth, and then provides the support and opportunities youth need to be healthy contributing citizens now and as adults. A high quality SBYD Program has a combination of life skills development, academic enrichment, mastery of adult and peer relationships, and vigorous physical activity. The diagram below illustrates how SBYD programs impact young people.*

Philadelphia, PA: Leadership Development Stream

Total Revenue: $75,000 USD per year

Recommended Grant Amount: $10-25,000 USD per year

We aim to fund out-of-school-time programs for adolescents in the Philadelphia region that focus on empowering its participants through providing skills in advocacy and community organizing to build active citizens, change makers and ultimately future leaders in the community.

*These programs are not necessarily political, but rather based in advocacy and grassroots initiatives that inspire youth to find their voice in causes they are passionate about, and reflect the priorities of Philadelphia residents. We are open to reviewing grants from programs that may revolve around sport or art, for example, but have a well-defined leadership development component in their mission.

Cambridgeshire & Northamptonshire, England: Sports-Based Youth Development

Total Revenue: $125,000 USD per year

Recommended Grant Amount: $10-50,000 USD per year

We support not-for-profit organizations located in Cambridgeshire and Northamptonshire counties, with a focus on Sports-Based Youth Development (SBYD)*, as a way to enhance and enrich the lives of youth. We hope that by participating in sports, youth learn self confidence, resilience and the benefits of a healthy lifestyle.

Sports-Based Youth Development (SBYD) Programs use sports to engage youth, and then provides the support and opportunities youth need to be healthy contributing citizens now and as adults. A high quality SBYD program has a combination of life skills development, academic enrichment, mastery of adult and peer relationships, and vigorous physical activity. See the Philadelphia SBYD stream for a diagram that illustrates how SBYD programs influence young people.*

Greater Victoria, British Columbia: Food-Based Youth Development Stream

Total Revenue: $100,000 USD per year

Recommended Grant Amount: $10-25,000 USD per year

The Foundation will support organizations working at the nexus of food, health and youth. We hope to support work at all levels: individual, community and/or systemic levels in the Capital Regional District. We will give preference to organizations working with:

- Indigenous youth and Indigenous food systems

- Youth with developmental disabilities
- Youth-led initiatives

Greater Victoria, British Columbia: Leadership Development Stream (focus: Youth Workers)

Total Revenue: $45,000 USD per year

Recommended Grant Amount: $10-15,000 USD per year

The Foundation will support initiatives that work to enhance youth work and support youth workers in the Greater Victoria Region. We hope to support several initiatives at the lower end of our funding range, to seed innovation and research within this service sector.

Youth workers are young people and adults who are engaged in education, empowerment, activism, or other activities focused on adolescents in community-based settings, including recreation centers, schools, or community centres. As a distinct field, youth work, has been established since the early 20th century. Since that time a plethora of groups have become active, leading advocacy, research, and education about community youth work around the world. (Adapted from: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Community_youth_workers)

East Bay Area, San Francisco, California: Food-Based Youth Development Stream

Total Revenue: $125,000 USD per year

Recommended Grant Amount: $10-50,000 USD per year

We fund organizations located in the Alameda & Contra Costa Counties that focus on the following areas: local food systems in low income communities; and creative programs for empowering girls.