Simulate meditation session, invite audience to contemplate about 'self' dissociated from all things external. Take a peek at one's consciousness, be aware of yourself being aware, notice the 'self' that observes your thoughts, feelings, emotions.

who am I? What is left when the 'conditions' are taken away one by one? Take away my name, my position/title, my physical appearance, my prejudice. What is left is that essence of my conscious.

Who are you? Mirror nothing? Now who are you?

highly lit chamber for big enough for single occupancy

(666) light up 0% (light on attic) instant (light goes darker)