In front of so much fear...

Do we have anything left to say?

We cannot be silent about Ebola taking into account our commitment to a more cohesive CITIZENSHIP and the building of a fairer world, so we are going to speak to the media, the politics and the governments about it.

We have much left to say.

Please, don't argue as much as you do, and think about people as the center of your opinions.

- To those who are suffering, who do not have medications or clinics or hospitals to go.
- To those who have helped others and are now infected themselves.

Do not reduce drastically the money for International Cooperation:

- In this case, do not reduce to the origin countries of the outbreak of Ebola.
- and to the poor countries without basic sanitary system.
- Bet for the education and training as the best prevention of any disease.

Do not cut in social protection in Spain:

- Give back the cut in health and social policies.
- Return to invest in education, this cannot be cut.

ACTITUDES PARA UNA VIDA SOLIDARIA

Living in pro-social involves two fundamental aspects:

An exit box... empathy.

Putting ourselves in the place of others, knowing and analyzing their circumstances, feeling with them their concerns and understanding their opportunities and limitations.

A goal on the horizon... the Common Good..

Acting for the benefit of others without expecting anything in return, leaving our selfishness in the pursuit of the common welfare of others.

In this funny animated short film, its characters only worry about their own needs, forgetting the importance of understanding and respecting the rights of others. We can see also the importance of the cooperation. It was the director Ting Chian Tey's thesis of degree.

This map shows the population density spread around all over the world, with the annual average per capita national income. But there are many interesting facts as the use of internet, phone lines contracted, CO2 emissions, deaths from infections or years of schooling, etc.

We can analyze the access to basic services of the different areas of the planet and its relationship with poverty for example among other things.

International day for the tolerance.

The tolerance is the firmest foundation of the peace and the reconciliation. The tolerance is something that must be learned from the infancy and that all the nations have to protect. With that, they will contribute to a fairer world, without violence and without discrimination. For it, the International Day for the Tolerance has been celebrated since 1996.

The tolerance recognizes the universal human rights and the diversity of the cultures.

On November 20, we celebrate the anniversary of the convention on Children's rights.. This international agreement remind us about our commitment as human beings so that no child or young person is deprived of rights as the survival, the education or the protection...

25

International day of the elimination of the violence against the woman.

It is one day to remember not only the victims of the physical violence, but also a day to rethink all these "low intensity" attitudes that perpetuate the discrimination and the inequality.

It is the time to think and to act next to the victims. Does it have any sense all this gratuitous violence in our 21st century?
