Search engine optimization is the process of getting better optimized for search engines. The top three include Google, Bing, and Yahoo. As a matter of fact, this document is doing two things for us right now.

#1, it is marketing us to you. #2, it is helping to optimize our website, build trust and authority. This is the same exact process that we utilize for our clients to help them rank highly in the top three search engines. We focus on and track Google most closely (since they have the biggest market share), but the others do matter. Just like social media ties in as well, we want to have a strong foundation overall.

Now's the time, give me a call at 480-370-3219 to discuss your campaign. I'd be happy to answer your questions and see if we're a good fit for each other. I've been doing SEO for over a decade now, and continue to adapt and change when new best practices are discovered via our own and industry data.

Long story short, I look forward to hearing from you and working with you. And if you'd prefer to check out our website, the link is below. We're a Scottsdale SEO company that offers design services, website building, updating, social media, and (of course) search engine optimization services:
