

Spelling Skills Development

CPD Training

John Murray, author of the best selling Reading Explorers series, is proud to present a Professional Development course that will enhance the teaching and learning of key spelling skills.

Created to work in conjunction with the development of core reading skills, this unique course offers participants the opportunity to gain a fuller understanding of how key spelling skills are acquired and examines how this impacts a learner's spelling ability and fluency when reading.

Especially of interest for those who teach dyslexic students, each session provides practical advice on how to encourage learners to take an active role in their own spelling development and offers guidance on how to support parents so that the teaching and learning of spelling can be promoted beyond the classroom.

To cater for your school's individual needs, each training course can be delivered in-house in one of two ways:

Half day course

Two twilight sessions

The course is suitable for both teachers and learning support assistants.
