To whom it may concern,

RE: WTC ROOFING

We are architects who specialise in education work with around a quarter of all Waikato schools using our services.

In recent years we have completed many projects where WTC Roofing were the roofing sub-contractor and a few very recent projects to re-roof existing buildings where WTC Roofing were the main contractor. In particular some of these were rectification of leaky buildings.

Throughout these projects, WTC Roofing have proven to be dependable and have provided a good quality outcome in the time required. They offer advice on solutions when problems occur and we feel it is advice that we can trust.

In all of our experience with WTC Roofing, Nathan and his team have proven to be fair and open about their costs and about the projects in general, and have helped us out where they could when problems occur, as they invariably do when dealing with older buildings.

With the above taken into consideration, we would Highly recommend WTC Roofing as a roofing and waterproofing contractor on any future projects.

Please don't hesitate the writer should you have any queries.

Yours faithfully
