About US

United States of America-China Chamber of Commerce is a not-for-profit, bi-national membership organization under Internal Revenue Code Section 501(c)(6) dedicated to developing increased U.S.-China trade and investment activities by assisting American and Chinese companies, professionals and the general public to better understand the business environment and cultural traditions relevant to successfully doing business in both countries. USCCC conducts a wide range of activities – such as seminars, conferences, workshops, executive briefings, trade missions and networking events – to identify the technological, economic, financial, demographic and cultural trends that are critical for successful economic development between the U.S. and China. USCCC also aids both American and Chinese companies in locating business partners for trade and investments, and provides important governmental and business introductions for companies of all sizes in the U.S. and in China.

SECOND ANNUAL U.S.-CHINA TRADE CONFERENCE
(Subject to Change)

Significance of the Conference

- Timely – Olympic 2008 will be held in Beijing and APEC will be held in Shanghai this October. Ambassador Robert Zoellick, U.S. Trade Representative will give a keynote address at this Conference shortly after his return from APEC with President George W. Bush
- Tremendous amount of business opportunities for trade and foreign direct investments between the two countries particularly post China's entry to WTO
- A comprehensive discussion of various business and cultural issues that are relevant and crucial in competing in this global economy
- Exceptional occasion to meet professionals and companies involved in U.S.-China trade.

“By encouraging entrepreneurship and becoming a full participant in global markets, China will take on greater political freedom as well. It's a process that everyone in this country should heartily support ... This is a time of astonishingly rapid change. What any of us did yesterday isn't necessarily relevant to the challenges of today and tomorrow ... China has the resources and, more importantly, the will to meet [upcoming] challenges ...” David Komansky, Chairman and CEO at U.S.-China Chamber of Commerce First Annual Gala Award Dinner.
