All Bills of Lading are NON-NEGOTIABLE. AirCargoBid, retains the right to VOID all rate quotes and/or VOID all obligations to make any payments to a carrier/forwarder/NVOCC relating to a shipment in which customer utilizes any Bill of Lading not authorized or issued by the carrier/forwarder/NVOCC or AirCargoBid, or alteration of said BOL or tendering of shipments to any carrier other than that designated by AirCargoBid . In the event customer uses unauthorized BOL, an administrative charge of $50 may apply.
- b. After freight charges are paid and within one week, reasonable restrictions may apply, following Estimated Time of Departure (ETD) Express Release Bill of Lading will be e-mailed to the consigner. OCEAN-RAIL-TRUCK SHIPMENTS: If the shipping documents indicate that a port of discharge is different from the final destination (Place of Delivery by Carrier), then cargo will discharge first at the port of discharge and continue traveling to its final destination. Estimate Time of Arrival (ETA) on customer's Bill of Lading (BOL) for such shipments is to the first port of discharge, NOT TO THE FINAL DESTINATION. Arrival to the final destination requires additional time. For more precise ETA to the FINAL DESTINATION contact customer's destination agent indicated in customer's BOL in 10-15 days after ETA to the port of discharge for the transshipment.

- e. If for any reason destination terminal will not contact consignee and/or notify party after Estimate Time of Arrival (ETA) it is strongly recommended to notify the destination terminal indicated within the 'FOR DELIVERY/PICKUP PLEASE APPLY TO' field of customer's Bill of Lading in few days after the ETA. It will insure that customers are prepared for recovery of customer's freight and avoid possible storage or demurrage charges.
- f. NOTICE: The final destination station may only be notified a few days prior to customer's cargo's arrival.
