CONTEST APPLICATION

The Sharon Lustbader Scholarship

Every spring, The Broome Street Review (in collaboration with Midwood High School's incredible English department) hosts a literary contest for graduating seniors. Submit one poem or short story related to the theme—it doesn't have to be literal, of course. Be creative! The winner of this contest will be published in the next issue of the Broome Street Review and will be the recipient of the $250.00 Sharon Lustbader Scholarship.

About The Broome Street Review

The Broome Street Review is a biannual journal of new arts. Each issue, structured loosely around a theme, strives to push the envelope of what we consider art and poetic invention. The Broome Street Review seeks not only to present a unique and beautiful rostrum for new and established voices, but also a place of support for these voices. Each issue is designed to inhabit a performative space with each of the poets and artists acting as dramatis personae.
