Host a Meal That Matters

When 1 December

It's time to dust off the good linens, break out the special cutlery and get out that bottle of red you've been saving.

Host a meal that matters this World AIDS Day and you'll help to stop the spread of HIV within Australia as well as supporting people who are already living with HIV.

How to host!

Simply register and we'll send you one of our fundraiser packs with information, posters and meal suggestions for your Red-themed bash.

If you're outside the participating states of VIC, QLD and the ACT, contact your local HIV organisation.

Raising funds!

Your meal will have a personalised fundraising page which you can share on social media or send to the friends that you invite. If people can't make it to your meal, just share the link to your event with them so that they can still contribute.

If you receive donations or tips on the day, you can use your fundraising page to donate them or contact us for our account details.

Get cooking!

Hosting a meal can be as simple as a work morning tea with your colleagues, a backyard BBQ, or an elaborate formal affair. Whatever you'd like to do, it's up to you.

The important thing is to raise awareness along with funds. Our fundraiser packs have lots of useful information to get the conversation started.
