Los Angeles Diversity Film Festival Announces 2014 Film Selections

LOS ANGELES – The Los Angeles Diversity Film Festival today announced its 2014 film selections. Twenty-three of the selections will be screened at the festival on Aug. 8-10 at the ACME Comedy Theatre Hollywood.

The selections include short and feature length films, documentaries, webseries, trailers, student films, and films involving youth in media (filmmakers under 14 years old). The festival's seven programs will showcase a mix of films that celebrate diverse backgrounds, including all races and ethnicities, sexual orientations, genders, ages, religions, disabilities, socioeconomic statuses, and other backgrounds.

Purchase tickets at www.LADFF.com. Tickets are $5 online and $10 at the door.

“We are excited to welcome this talented and diverse group of filmmakers to our first festival,” said Hollis McLachlan, festival director. “We look forward to providing a multicultural experience to the independent film community through a festival that is inclusive and that authentically represents diverse peoples.”

The Los Angeles Diversity Film Festival, a non-profit 501 (c) (3) organization, provides actors and filmmakers of diverse backgrounds a venue in which to showcase their voices without judgment or insincere reflection; free of stereotypes and degradation. Our goal is to establish a truly multicultural experience represented by the world's independent film community. To view the list of selections and program schedule, visit www.ladff.com.
