CAMERON HIGHLANDS & MALACCA

Although very different from each other, the Cameron Highlands and Malacca showcase a side of Malaysia's fascinating history. The Cameron Highlands, about two-and-a-half hours from Kuala Lumpur, with its rolling verdant hills and elevated at 1500 metres above sea level is a reprieve from the heat of the rest of the country. It's the only place in Malaysia where you'll find tea plantations and is a peaceful retreat with a distinct British Colonial flavour.

Malacca, about two hours south of Kuala Lumpur was a bustling centre for trade between China, India, Thailand, and Europe – this heritage means Malacca has a distinct culture – a multicultural melting pot and a food-lover's paradise well worth exploring.

DISCOVER SINGAPORE

This island state is often misrepresented as a bland and sterile city when it is anything but! Once a sleepy fishing village, Singapore became a trading port for the British East India Company and is now a major financial hub of Asia. The name Singapore originates from the Malay word 'Singapura', which translates as Lion City, and is symbolised by the Merlion which you can see spouting water from the banks of the Singapore River and Sentosa Island.

Gourmands will love this city – from the Hawker Markets to fine dining – Singapore offers a smorgasbord of delicious options to choose from. Try the famous Singapore chilli crab, chicken rice or char kuay teow. Enjoy a cocktail at one of the trendy bars in Dempsey Hill, or at Ku De Ta, the rooftop bar of the Marina Bay Sands Hotel. Singapore is great to visit at any time of the year, and is host to numerous festivals and events, including the Singapore Grand Prix in September, and the Great Singapore Sale in June and July.
